

Acalio appears after several years working in the New Technologies sector. It is a dynamic and a young company consisting of high qualified staff, who are able to adapt to your necessities in an efficient and a quick way.

Acalio is a technological based company, which is directed to fill the necessities of the Business Market. It is offer a comprehensive service to the companies. It also fills from the information technologies maintenance the development of specific programs to the employee training.

We develop systems which are ready to work in Web systems, so they will be carry out in any computer regardless of the operating system that you have (Windows, Linux, MacOS). The Web system also offer the possibility to work in an independent computer or through a server (local or remote). It implies that a person can install the program in his/her own computer or in a server located in any place. So everyone who connect with such computer can work with the program.

From now on, your company can count with an innovative computer department with a low cost thanks to Acalio.

